It being an admitted fact, that "Money makes money," the object of LA BIENHECHORA could not be better, since it opens a vast Savings Bank for the surplus or savings of the Public, so that, by the proper employment of these small gains, a moderate capital, or even annuity, may be secured in a short time. By this means a provident, though helpless, family can husband their small means, and, in the end, attain a competency.

It being proved that the accumulation of interest is the most powerful means of augmenting the capital, THE BIENHECHORA DEL PLATA—an Argentine Company, whose only investments are in the country—holds out to Subscribers greater advantages than any other Institution, by reason of all its dealings being in the River Plate, where are current as large interests as in any part of the world.

THE BIENHECHORA DEL PLATA receives Deposits of from Five Patacones per Annum up to any amount in Weekly, Monthly, or Yearly Instalments.

PARIS IN FLAMES.

DESTRUCTION OF PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

ENTRY OF VERSAILLES TROOPS.

The ancient prophecy that Paris was to be destroyed by fire, is at last accomplished!

Paris, once the finest city in the world—the pride of Frenchmen and extolled of all others—the "Paradise of Americans," and favourite resort of Europeans—is to-day a mass of blackened ruins!! Her proudest monuments and trophies of former glories are razed to the ground, whilst their destroyers, Frenchmen by name, mount upon their broken pedestals and harangue their fellow-furies and demons, on the grand work they have done and the crown of immortality they have gained by the destruction of all Royal and Imperial emblems. Yes! this was the last page wanting in the chapter of French disasters—the last black stain to fill up the already foul scutcheon of Red-Republican France!

Your readers will have already heard of the destruction of the Column Vendome, razed to the ground on the 16th May, but they cannot yet have heard of the horrible sequel to that most barbarous act of vandalism ever recorded in human history! Following close upon it, came the desecration and total destruction of the Expiatory Chapel of Louis XVI—then the sacking and closing of all the churches, the execution of the Archbishop and imprisonment of nearly every priest in Paris. Christian service in the churches declared unlawful, whilst even the worship of GOD was prohibited. The house of M. Thiers was pulled down and his furniture and papers either burnt or carried off by the members of the Commune—and lastly but most distressing of all—the Tuilleries, Palais Royal, Hotel de Ville, and nearly all the public edifices fired, and when your correspondent left were fast crumbling into ashes and with them, the pride and glory of "La Belle France."

Not to anticipate events I will try to give you some account of what I saw during the few eventful hours I was permitted to remain in the vicinity of Paris and Versailles on the memorable 21st and 22nd May.

I left London on the morning of the 21st at 7.40, and reached Calais at 12.30 p.m., where I found that owing to the almost complete disorganization of the French Railway system the usual train for Paris would not be despatched, but a slow one substituted, which stopped at nearly every station 'en route.' After enquiries as to the best way of reaching Versailles I resolved on taking a ticket for Creil, whence I could either proceed via Poutoise or St. Denis and take a carriage to Versailles. At Abbeville we first began to realize France's humiliation, in the late war. The 'spiked helmets' literally swarmed at every station, and jealous sentinels with fixed bayonets and ever-ready needle gun poked their noses into every carriage and turned over our luggage muttering some unintelligible gutterals. What they sought I am unable to say, but presume they wanted to see if arms or ammunition were being surreptitiously introduced. All along the line, in the villages and towns, behind the hedgerows and in the fields, everywhere seemed swarming with Prussian soldiers—fine looking fellows, and just the men to do what they have done, and take care that the world should know it too.

A Porteño friend who accompanied me, and whose predilections were certainly not German, kept constantly exclaiming, "Vea! éstas hormigas como salen de todas partes!" The nearer we approached to Creil the more numerous they seemed to become, until at last the platforms were so crammed with soldiers and the buffets with officers, that one could scarcely move, and as to refreshments, the word cannot be used save in mockery from Calais to St. Denis!

At last, after nearly twelve hours from Calais, we arrived at St. Denis at 11.30 p.m., and had been almost induced to go on to Paris, as the trains had entered and left without hindrance up to that evening. I am glad, however, our better judgment prevailed, and the prudence of our determination to remain the night at St. Denis was fully proved before long.

St. Denis was, of course, crammed with Prussians, and the chances of getting a bed at that late hour were very slight indeed. After two hours' fruitless search, we were obliged to return to the railway station and beg permission to sit in the waiting room till daylight. My Porteño friend had his wife with him, and this made the situation more difficult. The waiting room was occupied by some thirty or forty rough 'bourgeoises,' as noisy as they were fulsome in their appearance and language. Wine circulated freely amongst them; and the idea of remaining there, not to mention the chance of getting an hour's sleep, had to be abandoned. We sought the station master, (and after some parley (and francs) had the satisfaction of being shown into the commissary's room or office.

We had just got comfortably asleep on the benches, with bundles of 'espedientes' for pillows (perhaps the causes of some celebrated criminals were among them), when the station master knocked loudly at the door, and requested us to leave the room, as a telegraphic despatch had just come from Versailles ordering the comissary to be at his post and ready for service at a moment's warning. Shortly after this another despatch came, saying that the Versailles troops had attacked the Communists and entered Paris by the gate of St. Cloud, and that a second and more general attack would take place that morning at day light.

We walked about until 4.30 a.m., when we managed to secure an omnibus and started for Versailles. I must here state that the intercourse with Paris via St. Denis, which had been uninterrupted up to the previous evening, had been that morning cut off, and no trains were allowed to leave or enter. We left St. Denis by the ordinary route for Versailles—some two and a half hours' ride—and had got a short distance out of the town, when a Prussian picquet turned us back and said that as fighting was going on ahead it was dangerous to pass. We then took a circuitous route, and doubling some other Prussian picquets, got on to the highroad again. We were now within the line of Prussian troops which had that morning concentrated round Paris, forming a perfect cordon, and acting as a police barrier to the escape of the Communists. Already M. Rochefort had fallen into their hands at Meaux, and was to have been sent that morning a close prisoner to Versailles.

We got on our road famously until in front of Mont Valerien, when suddenly the forts of Montmartre and Montrouge opened fire and sent showers of monster shells in the direction of the Arc de Triomphe and Champs Elysées (and towards Mont Valerien; many went wide of the mark, and several burst at a short distance from us in the road. We pushed on with all speed to get out of range, and were accompanied in our flight by several residents in the neighborhood whose houses were getting too hot for them. Suddenly our progress was stopped by a battery of horse artillery and some 500 men coming along at full speed towards the bridge of Neuilly. We drew our omnibus close to the wall and allowed them to pass. The scene was now getting too exciting to look upon serenely; shells and round shot were falling about thickly, and the roar of cannon and rattle of musketry were almost deafening.

Presently a battalion of infantry came up at the double and went on over the bridge, I left my party here and followed them some distance until I reached the heights of Mount Valerien whence I had a splendid view of the general attack by the Versailles troops. I am not sufficiently acquainted with the localities about Paris to describe minutely all the movements, and even though I were, it would be no easy task, for all seemed a mass of confusion, smoke, crashes and yells. The fighting seemed most energetic in the Trocadero, Champ de Mars, and Elysees, and I must say that both parties fought bravely. The Communists seemed more like demons than human beings, and attended as they were by a numerous concourse of women furies, it reminded me most vividly of the history of the great revolution of '89. Had the wretched partizans of the Reds fought against the common enemy when France was being laid waste by the foreigner, with even half the dogged determination they showed against their brothers, there might have been a different story of Prussian successes to tell to-day. Large numbers of prisoners were made at every charge of the Versaillais and among them many women. Assy, one of the principal leaders of the Reds was taken here, and carried off with his entire staff to Versailles: he was trying to escape in a carriage, but the horses were shot and he fell into the hands of his pursuers.

I now began for the first time to notice the state of the surrounding neighbourhood. In every direction almost as far as I could see with my glass, nothing met my view but destruction and desolation, Ruined houses and homesteads, whose debris covering the ground interrupted the highways at every turn. Here a once luxurious and costly villa, the scene of many an Imperial soiree, the pleasure resorts of the refined Parisiennes, There a once industrious and busy factory with its tall chimney and noble machinery, the font of production, whence those much sought, but alas! now so scarce 'Articles de Paris' were wont to spring from and penetrate into the most remote corner of the earth. All is now a mass of charred ruins, a shapeless heap of bricks, with here and there the remains of a steam engine and monster boilers standing out alone in cold relief against the sky, like so many gaunt giants bemoaning the surrounding desolation. The scene was most disheartening, and the more distressing when one remembered that it was not the invader but French cannon and French hands that caused this wholesale ruin.

And did it cease here? No! Still it goes on and shell after shell is being launched into the doomed city, whilst Montmartre replies with redoubled energy, and each terrible explosion announces the destruction of some once happy home! Dense columns of smoke issue from the direction of the Place de la Concorde, and we were afterwards told it was the Ministry of War and Marine which had been fired by the insurgents.

It was now getting towards evening and I thought it time to get on to Versailles. I joined a large convoy of prisoners, and reached the 'Place des Armes' about 3 o'clock a.m. The scene here was almost indescribable. Thousands of over-excited citizens were wildly rushing backward and forward, and as each fresh convoy of prisoners came in, they were met by execrations and shouts of insult the most degrading and immoral. I noticed amongst the female prisoners a very pretty young girl, not more than eighteen, well-dressed and refined-looking. She was alone in a small spring cart with an awning and curtains at the sides. When she arrived at the entrance of the Palais of Versailles a number of women rushed from the crowd and assailed her with the most filthy epithets, and one ended by striking her a heavy blow on the breast, exclaiming—"Death to the Communo and harlots!" I could not find out who the fair prisoner was, but suppose she must have been a prominent supporter of the Paris bandits.

I left this exciting scene to visit another not less so, but more interesting in an intellectual point of view. I had a note of introduction to one of the secretaries of the Senate, and through his kind offices I had the satisfaction of hearing M. Thiers announce to the House the successful 'entree' of the Government troops into Paris. The old chief ascended the 'tribune' amidst profound silence, and although he seemed rather nervous, he delivered a short speech with great effect. There was much cheering and great excitement, and M. Thiers was affected almost to tears when the members came around him and embraced him, offering their congratulations on the success of the day.

Then M. Jules Simon announced that he had to honor the present a project of law whereby it was proposed to rebuild the Column Vendome, to be surmounted by a statue representing 'La France,' and to bear an inscription at foot setting forth the cause of its destruction and replacement. The same law proposed to authorise the immediate reparation of the Expiatory Chapel of Louis XVI. From the enthusiastic manner in which these projects were received I have no doubt they will be passed and made into law.

During the discussion in the Chambers and the 'vivas' for the capture of Paris, it was rather incongruous to hear the continued roar of artillery and explosion of shells in the direction of the doomed city. For, although the Versailles troops had penetrated almost into the heart of Paris, and had established their headquarters in the Ecole Militaire, had occupied the left of the Invalides and right of the Gare du Montparnasse, and General Clinchaut had gained the Grand Opera, yet in the Place de la Concorde they were still fighting, and the heavy ordinance seemed to affect but little the enormous barricade in front of the Tuilleries, from whose terraces a heavy enfilade cannonade was kept up, which swept the Champs Elysees, and almost made it untenable for the Versaillais.

I left the Chambers and strolled again amongst the still excited crowd around the Palace gates and in the avenues. Convoy after convoy of prisoners came pouring in, until their numbers reached nearly 4000. Their appearance was not certainly prepossessing; blood-stained, covered with dust and powder, some in uniform of the Guards, others in fancy dress, most of them in shirts and trowsers only, without hats, with their shaggy wild heads of hair blowing about to the wind, resembling more the type of our Patagonian Indian on the war trail than denizens of the once most civilized city in the world.

The celebrated Rochefort was brought in, accompanied by his secretary, Mourot, in custody of M. Quevelier, Commissary of Police. They were seated in a large brake with several gensdarmes, but on reaching the Rue de la Pompe were assailed by the crowd and insulted violently. Their progress was completely stopped, and the crowd insisted on their being made to walk as common criminals to prison, shouting "death to them!" at every step, and had almost laid violent hands on them when the party arrived at the Prison of St. Pierre, where they were lodged.

After this scene I went into the gardens of the Palace. As I passed through the fine courtyard of this magnificent edifice I thought of how it must have looked a few short weeks ago with its Imperial German guest and his Teuton hosts encamped about and enjoying what was once exclusively intended for Royalty. The fine galleries with their magnificent paintings and sculpture are now the various offices of the new Republican Government. I looked into a large apartment and saw a dirty little pug-nosed democratic clerk sitting at a table scribbling, under a magnificent painting of the 'Grand Monarche' in one of his numerous attitudes, perhaps the most haughty, seemingly looking down with Bourbonic horror at the desecration of his royal palace. I was looking round the room and admiring the fine paintings when a sentinel came up and turned me out at the point of the bayonet.

I strolled through the noble gardens, and amongst those classic groups of statues and fountains for a short time, and observed the state of neglect the fine grounds had fallen into. This I partly judge may be accounted for by the destruction of some of the beautiful grass plots and parterres by the Prussian soldiers. They are quite bare of grass and trampled down, and will require a long time to bring back to their former trim appearance. On the grand terrace beneath the shade of one of the Royal yewtrees, I found an old woman selling cakes and oranges! I bought some, just to say that I had done so on the grand terrace of Versailles. I then left and went to my hotel, where I had to put up with a room about 12 feet square, and was told I ought to feel much obliged even for a lodging at all—everywhere was crammed, and rooms at such premium that many travellers on arrival had to put up with a seat in a coffee-room for a night or two in lieu of a bed.

The next morning I left at 7.50 for Bordeaux via Le Mans and Tours, and instead of arriving at our destination that night at 10 p.m. we only got into Bordeaux at 7 a.m the next morning. Every small station was stopped at, and a bevy of police agents entered and searched the carriage, demanding and scrutinising closely every passport. At Tours I was taken out and brought before the Prefect by a sergeant of gendarmes as an escaped Communist from Paris, with a forged British passport. Of course on proving my identity I was set at liberty and allowed to proceed with a caution from the sergeant not to do it again.

On arrival at Bordeaux I heard nothing fresh from Paris save that fighting was still going on, and the Communists resisting most tenaciously. We left that afternoon for Lisbon, and there we received the following telegrams:—

(No. 1.)

Versailles, May 25, 1 a.m.

The Hotel de Ville has been taken, and our troops have just occupied Montrouge. These successes are being followed up with energy by three corps d'armée now operating in Paris. It is expected that to-night the Governments troops will be in possession of Paris. It is rumoured that Gen. Vinoy has been named Gov. of Paris; also that Delescluse, Cluseret, Pyat and Ranvier were made prisoners. The losses have been considerable on our side in some quarters. Many houses burnt, and it is feared that the colonnade of the Louvre cannot be saved. All the fire brigades from the towns and provinces of France have been called to Paris by telegraph. The number of prisoners made by the Versaillais up to the present reaches 12,000. The insurgents have suffered severe losses in killed and wounded,

(No. 2.)

Reuter's Telegram.

London, 25th May, 1 p.m.

The forts of Montrouge and Bicetry have been captured by the Versailles troops. Sanguinary struggles still continue with violence in the districts of Belleville, and Buttes of Chaumont, Monsier. Thiers announces that the streets of Paris are literally covered with corpses. Great fires had broken out in various quarters, but were not making such progress as was first feared. It is rumoured that the insurgents have executed the Archbishop of Paris, 60 priests, General Martempre, and many others. The ruin, destruction, and desolation visible in the principle streets is impossible to describe. The Rue Royale is completely blown up by mines. The Belgian Government have announced their intention to treat every escaped Communist who may take refuge in their territory as common criminals, and not as political refugees.

(No. 3.)

London, May 26 7 o'clock p.m.

The Archbishop of Paris and others said to have been executed were saved by the Versailles troops. The insurgent chiefs Eudes. Delescluze and Ranvier are prisoners—Vallet, Brunet, Rigalt, Parrisel, Dombrowsky, Le Frangais and Bousquet are amongst the killed. The Communists are defending their positions with desperate tenacity—It is calculated that there are 6000 killed and 15,000 prisoners up to the present. The Palace of the Bourbons is destroyed! The collection of works of art (except the bibliotheque) in the Louvre saved.

The Insurgents have blown up fort Issy. The Bibliotheque National, the Bank of France and the great book of National dividends are saved.

The insurgents still hold the quarters of Bercy, Place de la Bastille, Belleville, Charonne, Menilmontant, and Villete.

(No. 4).

Versailles, 26th, 12.50, night.

The Quartier de Mouffe has been taken, and 6,000 prisoners have fallen into our hands.

The insurgents still hold out in Belleville and Butte de Chaumont, whence they incessantly launch shells filled with petroleum into Paris, causing new fires.

The public buildings destroyed up to the present are. The Tuilleries Ministry of Finance—Prefecture of Police, Tribunal de Contar, Legion of Honor, Barracks on the Quai d'Orsay, Hotel de Ville, and Mont de Piete. The buildings fired but saved from total destruction are the Ministry of Marine and Interior, School of fine arts, Bank of France, and Credit Rural. The Churches have not suffered; amongst the chiefs of the Insurrection shot are Vallet, Amoroux, Brunet, Rigault, Parisel, Dombrowsky, Le Francais and Bousquet. It is not certain whether Pyat, Delescluze, and Cluser et areyet prisoners, nor is the fate of the Archbishop and other prisoners in the hands of the Commune yet known although it is rumoured they were saved.

MacMahon has sent an ultimatum to the Insurgents, and states that all taken with arms in their hands will be immediately shot.

These are the latest telegrams up to our departure from Lisbon. The general belief seemed to be that Paris would be completely destroyed, as the Communists had been for a long time accumulating petroleum and making incendiary shells, whilst it is well known they have mined the principal streets and only await the complete entry of the foot troops to fire them and thus terminate their vandalic Rule by annihilating the last remnants of beauty left in the doomed city.

THE DOMINGUEZ AND VARELA LOANS.

LETTER OF D. LUIS DOMINGUEZ.

A discussion has arisen in the Tribuna as to whether the loan negotiated by D. Luis Dominguez for the province of Buenos Ayres, or the one recently made by D. Mariano Varela, for the National Government, may be considered the more successful. The question is a bootless one and only a waste of time, which might be better employed in devising the best means of investing the four millions of sovereigns of the new loan. Meantime the letter of D. Luis Dominguez in rectification of the statements of the Tribuna is as folllows:—

In Monday's Tribuna there is an article headed "accounts of the nation," treating of the Varela Loan, which you say is the most advantageous that has ever been negotiated for this country. You proceed to compare it with that of Sr. Riestra, in 1866-68, and make some flattering allusions to the Buenos Ayres Loan concluded by me last June, but without entering into details of the latter, the facts of which are these:—

"The Provincial Loan was negotiated at 88, the interest to run from payment of the first instalment, as is usual. It was the first time any of our loans had reached such a figure, and the general opinion in London was, that it was too high, and might cause the whole thing to fall through. It was almost the same rate (less the coupon) of the Argentine bonds at that time on the London Stock Exchange.

"The Varela Loan has been effected at 88½ nominal, but in reality only 88 the same as the Provincial.

"The Provincial has only 1 per cent. sinking fund, so that the subscribers get back their money in 33 years. The Varela Loan has 2½ sinking fund, recouping the subscribers in 21 years. The Provincial has no collateral security or mortgage: the Varela is guaranteed by mortgage on the 5 per cent. import, and 2 per cent. export additional duties. Hence it is easy to see that my loan was the more advantageous.

"As regards the current quotations, at the time, of the old loan of 1824 that was a circumstance rather to favor Varela's negotiation than mine, since it is a National loan, the interest being paid by the National Government, although in name 'the debt of Buenos Ayres.' For that reason when I was effecting my loan, far from profiting of the name of the old Buenos Ayres stock, I announced in my programme that the Province of Buenos Ayres had no foreign debt.

"Nevertheless, looking at the thing fairly, I must say that the quotations of the old Buenos Ayres stock could not in any way assist the new loans of either the Nation or the Province, since the Bonds of 1824 are now guaranteed by both, and are entirely off the market, held up by a few, the current quotation being merely for the purpose of obtaining the highest possible rate of amortization.

The Tribuna in reply objects to the statement that the extra duties are 'mortgaged' for the Varela loan, when they are only 'destined' for that purpose. This is what lawyers call 'a distinction without a difference'. Meantime it is true that no actual mortgage of the Custom-house or its duties has been signed by Sor. Varela.

As we said before, both loans have been so successful that we have every reason to rejoice at the flattering manner in which the names of Buenos Ayres and the Argentine Republic are received on the London Stock-exchange. Messrs. Dominguez and Varela, when next they meet, may shake hands and congratulate each other, without descending into minute investigations as to which of them has been more skilful in getting the soft side of John Bull. It is a fortunate coincidence that both of them speak English fluently, shewing how useful the acquirement of our language is to Argentines, although some of our colleagues set little value on it. Was it the philosopher Locke who said "All mankind consists of two classes: those who speak English, and those who don't"

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The French mail steamer Gironde arrived in port yesterday; although the mails were delivered late, we are enabled to publish much interesting news of the events on the old continent. The Gironde was placed in quarantine, owing to having a foul bill of health from Bahia, although at Montevideo she was allowed communication with the shore, and brought up some passengers from that port. As every one on board the Gironde is well, it is thought the quarantine will not be more than four days at the outside.

Distressing intelligence was received in town yesterday morning from Corrientes. It appears the weather has lately been unusually hot there for the season, and on the 12th inst. the dreaded yellow fever re-appeared in the town, causing the greatest alarm. Two deaths took place on the date named, and there were fourteen fresh cases of the disease. This painful news comes from private but respectable sources, and caused much sensation in town yesterday. If confirmed, quarantine must at once be imposed on all vessels entering this port from Corrientes.

There were two fatal cases of yellow fever in the metropolis on Wednesday, and one of Asiatic cholera; on the previous day it is said there were two fatal cases of the latter disease. The Council of Health are devoting their attention to this unexpected appearance of a fresh scourge, in order to ascertain if it has been imported or has broken out sponta neously. Energetic measures should be at once adopted, as cholera is often quite as deadly in the coldest weather as in the heat of summer.

The weather showed signs of a change yesterday, and the barometer indicates an approaching storm; for the past two days the atmosphere has been anything but healthy. Towards evening heavy rain fell.

The mail brings intelligence of the wreck of an English steamer named the Don on a point of Ockun Island. The Chinese pirates attacked the ship, and plundered passengers and crew of everything, even their clothes, then driving them inland to shift for themselves. A friendly Chinaman met the party when they were on the point of perishing, and conducted them to the town of Amoy.

The Convention will meet this afternoon, and at last begin the long expected debate on the reform of the Provincial Constitution. The public cares little at present about any 'constitution' but its own, which requires to be strong, to resist the manifold perils health is exposed to in this unfortunate city. What is urgently required now is Sanitary Reform, but the subject seems to have been shelved completely; another epidemic in three months time may possibly give the subject fresh interest in official quarters.

The applications for the new Costa Rica loan, says the Daily News were for 5 times the amount, and it is already at 2¾ prem. The sum is comparatively small (£500,000) and is to be expended in constructing high-roads across Central America, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, about three hundred miles.

In the reception by H. Majesty at Buckingham Palace we observe that H.E. Don Mariano Balcarce presented his son-in-law Dr. Gutierrez de Estrada, formerly attached to the Mexican mission at Paris, and more recently Argentine Secretary of Legation. Mme. Balcarce presented her daughter Mme. Gutierrez de Estrada.

The Field has some interesting information about young men who have of late years emigrated from England to Virginia; they are getting on very well, and speak most highly of the country. Emigration to Canada is also increasing, but a writer warns young men that they cannot expect to be sportsmen and farmers at the same time. The exodus from Cork to the United States continues 1,000 per day.

The Capital of Rosario mentions a meeting of estancieros on the 15th under the presidency of Sr. Alvarado, to take measures to check the growing lawlessness of the camp districts. The Chief of Police assisted and declared his readiness to support any scheme for the protection of life and property. A Committee or Association for this purpose was then formed, comprising Messrs. Alborado, Gandara, John Armstong, Lara, Bengal, Granga, Juarez, Granados, Gastiaburu, Lopez, Altolaguirre, Alberdi, and Charles Bartlett. The act of Association was signed by 80 other estancieros including Goodoy, Palacios, Corbalan, Smith, Hinde, Connell, Hogan, Dana, Casado, Vernet, Gonsalez, Albarrocin. &c.

Some further particulars are given in the morning papers respecting Arredondo's expedition to the desert, which started from Fort February, frontier of Cordoba on May 19th, comprising: 4th batt. Lafuente, 300 strong; 7th do Laconcha, 250; 12th, Racedo, 200; 100 National Guards, Major Gonsalez; in all 850 men and 2,300 horses, under the orders of Col. Baigorria. When the troops reached Medano Colorado the Indians took alarm and mostly fled; the rest were slaughtered at Rincon, Cocha, and Verde, their settlements burnt down, their plantations of maize, wheat, barley, beans, and all that they had stored for the winter, destroyed, 80 Indian women have been made prisoners, including the wives and sisters of various caciques; several Christian women rescued from captivity; and the troops have made a booty of 3,000 sheep, 200 cows, 100 horses &c. In Europe this would be called a horrid massacre, but then moral codes vary according to the latitude, and in the Argentine Republic this way of converting Indians is reckoned much better than the old Jesuit system.

In our colleague La Republica we see that Don Ricardo Llavalle has brought an action for 12,800 patacons against Mr. Ponsar, the patentee of an apparatus for extracting the fat from the carcases of animals by a high pressure steam process. Mr. Llavalle claims the above sum as damages sustained by the failure of the machine. Mr Poussar has a patent for the invention both here and in the Oriental Republic.

We give all the latest European news in another column. We return many thanks to Major Rickard for forwarding, and to the Port officials for facilitating the early transmission of a correspondence which enables us to lay before our readers the highly important intelligence by the Gironde.

The amortization drawing of Municipal Bonds for the first three months of this year takes place to-day at the Credito Publico Office.

The prospects of Paraguay are improving according to the latest advices from Asuncion. It is thought Sr. Jovellanos will be the new Vice-President of the Republic. There are innumerable bills and projects before the Legislature, which is now more "d' accord" with the Executive than was the case some time ago. The banking bill has passed, and the bill for confiscating the property of the late Marshal Lopez has also been sanctioned by the Chambers. All titles of courtesy such as 'Excellency,' etc., have been abolished in Paraguay. We hear that the Quaker form of address 'respected friend,' is now the 'correct thing' in Asuncion.

A number of false $20 currency notes, of the new pattern, are now in circulation in town, and we place the public on their guard against the imposition. The notes are clumsily counterfeited, and can be detected with ordinary care.

A fortnight ago we gave the pleasing intelligence to the public that the Vermejo navigation problem had been partly solved. Official confirmation of the fact was received yesterday. Mr. Roldan, the leader of the exploring expedition, writes from the Rivadavia colony to the Governor of Salta to the effect that, "the navigation of the Vermejo may henceforth be considered a reality." The little steamer in which the explorers were, got to within 25 leagues of the colony, when they took to an open boat and safely made the remainder of the distance, after a brisk skirmish with the Indians, who were beaten off. Captain Page has drawn out a map of the country through which they passed, and had hopes of getting the steamer up to the colony. For eight days on the way up in the open boat the brave little party could not land or lie down to sleep through fear of the Indians.

The peace negotiations at Montevideo have been resumed, and there is still some hope of their having a successful issue. The Blancos have been requested to send Commissioners to Las Piedras, to open the conference.

Salvini and his dramatic 'troupe' will not come to Buenos Ayres before the end of the month, but the preparations for their appearance at the Colon are completed. This splendid actor has been making a sensation in Montevideo in his role of Sampson, and a letter signed 'Ingles' extols his acting.

The medical reports for the last two days are more satisfactory in reference to the small pox, which shows signs of abatement, although there are still many sufferers from it.

Don Candido Ravelli, and 66 other gentlemen, publish a manifesto in the Republica, recommending that a cross of merit be given to each member of the Comision Popular, to be made of metal, with the inscription 'El agradecido Pueblo Ronarense, 1871.' The idea is one deserving of support.

DEATH OF OMER PASHA.

A telegram from Constantinople announces that Omer Pasha, Commander-in-Chief of the Turkish army, died on Tuesday. Omer Pasha, Michael Lattas, a Grand Vizier, of Croat origin, was born at Plaski, a village in the district of Ogulin, on the Adriatic, in 1806. In early life he deserted from the Austrian army and adopted the creed of Islam, and took the name of Omer, applying himself with great assiduity to study the language, manners, and customs of his new countrymen. He became a master in the new military school at Constantinople, when Kosrew Pacha, then Minister of War, perceiving his talent and enterprise, appointed him officer in the regular army of the Sultan, and shortly afterwards made him adjutant on his personal staff. It was in quelling the insurgents in Syria and Albania that he first distinguished himself, and he was equally successful in Kurdistan. In 1848, having become a Pasha, he kept the aggressive policy of the Russians in check in Wallachia, and in 1852 was sent to effect the reduction of the hardy and warlike Montenegrins, and he had advanced to within a day's march of Cettinje, when the Austrian Special Commissioner at Constantinople induced the Divan to recall him and abandon the war. In June, 1853, the Russian troops having marched into Moldavia and Wallachia, Omer Pasha was appointed Generalissimo of the Turkish army. The Sultan's declaration of war was dated October 4, and the first important collision between the belligerents, in which the Russians were defeated with great loss, as they were on subsequent occasions, occurred November 4. He joined Gen. Canrobert and Lord Raglan with a part of his army before Sebastopol, and though his troops took no part in the siege, he made a diversion in Asia Minor, and forced the passage of the Ingour, November 6, 1855. He was sent to restore order in Herzegovina in May, 1861, and having performed various services, established Turkish rule in the island of Candia in 1867. His personal and domestic habits were European, and notwithstanding his change of creed he was the protector of the Christian subjects of the Sultan, and the ameliorater of their lot. In September, 1865, the Emperor of Austria bestowed upon him the Grand Cross of the Order of Leopold.—London Paper.

MISCELLANEOUS.

"Mother," said a boy of six years, "if God has any more babies to give away, don't you take 'em."

Now and then they cut off the ears of a horse thief in Oregon, and then telegraph East that the crops were never better than they are in this season.

Olive Logan declares that she will "remove the mystery that surrounds the girls." The rest of you may shut your eyes, but hanged if we will.—Louisville Courier Journal.

At the Georgia State Fair, a wealthy bachelor saw a beautiful young lady inspecting a new cook stove, sought an introduction, proposed, and was accepted—since which all the girls crowd about the stove department.

Beleaguered and Bellicose.—No wonder the French Government of defence refused to listen to any terms of armistice, which did not permit the revictualling of Paris. That Government is simply Provisional.—Punch.

You can do anything if you have patience," said an old uncle, who had made a fortune, to his nephew, who had nearly spent one; "Water may be carried in a sieve if you only wait." "How long!" asked the petulant spendthrift, who was impatient for the old man's death. "Till it freezes," was the cold reply.

A Boston gentleman who could not waltz offered a young lady 1000 dols. if she would let him hug her as much as the man did who had just waltzed with her. It was a good offer, and showed that money was no object to him, but they put him out of the house so hard that his eye was quite black.

The Food Journal says that a little attention on the part of the proprietors of dining-rooms would get rid of the evil of flies. In Belgium the butchers use laurel til on their doorposts and their window frames to such good effect that flies will not enter the shops. Is not this hint worth taking.

ON 'CHANGE.

June 22nd, 1871.

Ounces	400
Sovereigns	122½
Patacones	25
National Bonds	71⅜

The temper of the Bond market is without any noticeable alteration, and the transactions as yet, except for the end of the month are on the same scale of insignificance. Bonds for delivery on the 30th may be regarded as the leading speculative card for the moment, and the appetite for the stock of that date, at reasonable figures, seems insatiate. Where all the stock already sold for the 30th will come from is no mystery, but there is an accession of buyers at every stop prices fall. It may be that the buyers of last week are the sellers now, and the attitude of the market almost shows this; even those who have realised at last week's rates are now in the market for a new venture, inasmuch as few believe Bonds have yet touched their highest. Few of the large buyers last year have yet sold, and as money cases it is not probable that they will sell, but there are other 'Richards' now in the field, and the purchasers of stock in 1869 and 1868, when prices ranged from 45 to 60, are now 'dumping' the market. It is evident to all that outsiders are helping the speculation 'Gutter-snipes,' take stock from the Bolsa daily, and it looks as if the cliques would have all the opportunity they could desire of 'rigging' the market. Under the circumstances, with a gradually increasing area of speculation, as the public enters the ring, the prediction of higher prices which is still confidently made by the bulls, seems likely to be verified, and it is to be presumed that Bonds will now get into the 'street' amongst buyers, whose numbers always increase as prices decline. The dispute as to the application of the proceeds of the Varela loan possesses slight interest for speculators, inasmuch as they all know that the money must come to this markets and must go to the bank before permanently employed in any manner.

The sales of bonds to-day were as follows—

For cash 20,000 at 71§
June 30 63,000 opening at 71¾ and closing at 71¾.
July 31 15,000 at 71
July 10 25 000 70½

There was nothing done in the liquidation. The bears reported that no more gold is coming, and the rest of the loan will be drawn for, but none attach any importance to such a report.

The Flamsteed has arrived with 300,000 pats. for the London and River Plate Bank. This money has been very thoughtfully sent out by the President of the Bank with a view to strengthen the bank for any emergency arising from the plague, but the bank here was in so strong a position that it required no aid whatever, which speaks for its able management.

The River Plate Bank received to-day two thousand pounds for the Buenos Ayres relief fund. The particulars of the Meeting will be found in another column. Already ten thousand pounds sterling have been subscribed; on the first day £4300 were subscribed. We understand that an English committee for the distribution of these funds will be named, of which the British Minister will be chairman.

The sum of £2,371, 3s. 1d, has come down from Brazil to the Maua Bank for the relief fund. We notice that in London, Rio, Buenos Ayres, Rosario, Santos, Montevideo, Bahia, and in fact, at every point where a subscription has been opened for Buenos Ayres, the Maua Bank has come forward with the most munificent subscriptions for the relief of Buenos Ayres.

Exchange was done to-day for the Pacific mail at from 50½ to 50½, the bulk being passed at 50½.

Advices by the packet announce a change in the date of sailing of Messrs. Lamport & Holt's steamers from the 30th to the 2nd of each month.

It was said on 'Change that the Flamsteed has on board £160,000, of which £100,000 is for the Government, and £60,000 for the River Plate Bank. The Flamsteed will load for Antwerp and has all her cargo engaged at 45s. The Tycho Brahe will be the mail of the 9th, and will load for Havre, cargo all engaged at 45s., and Donati for New York 1½ for hides, and 10 pats for bales.

We regret to hear that the severe frosts about Bragado and the Western frontier have destroyed a great portion of the Indian corn.

The placing of the French packet in quarantine this morning caused some inconvenience. It appears she brought an unclean bill of health from Bahia. The mails, &c., had all to be fumigated, which led to great delay, and did not get ashore until the afternoon. It was rumored on 'Change that a quarantine of ten days is about to be placed on vessels arriving from Montevideo.

Mr Amorim, the manager of the Maua Bank in this city, arrived yesterday from Rosario, where he has been for some days on business. He speaks of Rosario as much improved, and showing steady signs of progress.

A new barraquero firm was announced to-day, Messrs. Hinricks & Bode, in the Plaza Constitucion; the name of the barraca is 'Barraca Nacional.'

Money to-day was offered on bonds at 9 per cent, taking bonds at a valuation of 65, it was said by some brokers to be offered even at 8. One of the private banks has discounted very best city bills at 7 per cent. per annum.

The French mail has brought the news of the verdict in the case of Mrs. Lynch v. Stewart. Mrs. Lynch has won the lawsuit, and recovered the £4000 in dispute.

Advices per French mail announce that the Royal Mail Steamer Neva will bring £500,000 sterling to the Argentine National Government on account of the Public Works Loan.

4000 arr mestiza wool, 27½ gold.

The Flamsteed arrived with £60,000 for the River Plate Bank.

The amortization of the Municipal bonds takes place to-morrow, Friday.

SAVINGS BANK
BANK MAUA AND Co.
101--Cangallo--103
BUENOS AYRES.

The immense advantages of Accounts Current we now so generally felt and appreciated in the two great emporiums of the River Plate, Montevideo and Buenos Ayres, that there are very few Merchants who fail to keep one at the bank in which they place the most confidence.

The Bank of Mauá & Co. in Montevideo has already provided for the working classes in that city a safe and profitable depositary for their savings.

The sums deposited in that very important institution are daily increasing, and already reach a very large amount.

These advantages have not hitherto been enjoyed in this city by an immense number of clerks artisans, working men, and servants of all classes and conditions, who are equally interested in putting their savings out at interest, thus providing themselves with a reserve fund in case of need, sickness, or old age, instead of spending them in the immoral gambling, in lotteries, and other frivolities.

The Bank of Mauá & Co. of this city, following the noble example of their firm in Montevideo, now offer the same facilities in this city, and has opened a Savings Bank at No. 103 Calle Cangallo from Nine a.m. till Three p.m. every day, for the reception of the savings of the classes alerady mentioned, Sundays an holidays excepted.

The Bank will deliver to each depositors a pass book, in which will be entered the amount deposited and withdrawn.

The depositor is permitted at any time to withdraw the whole or part of the sum deposited; in the former case the interes will be calculated up to date.

The Bank of Mauá & Co. is sufficiently known to the Public by the benefit dorived from the course of its operatious, which are regulated on the strictest and soundest principles, and always directed to promote the general welfare.

The Bank of Mauá & Co. are also persuaded that this new branch of their business will render immense service to the working classes of Buenos Ayres and its neighborhood.

Buenos Ayres, 2nd January, 1867.

P. P. MAUA & Co.,

M. A. DE FREITAS AMORIM.

CONDITIONS.

Second—The interest allowed is six per cent. p. S) per annum, which is liquidated every six months.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S
(Ex Army Med. Staff)
CHLORODYNE

IS THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. P. Wood stated that Dr. COLLIS BROWNE was undoubtedly the Inventor of CHLORODYNE that the story of the Defendant, Freeman, being the inventor was deliberately untrue, which he regretted had been sworn to. Eminent Hospital Physicians of London stated that Dr. J. Collis Browne was the discoverer of Chlorodyne, that they prescribe it largely, and mean no other than Dr. Browne's.—The Times, July 12, 1864.

The Public, therefore, are cautioned against using any other than

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE

REMEDIA, USES AND ACTION.

THIS INVALUABLE REMEDY produces quiet, refreshing sleep, relieves pain, calms the system, restores the deranged functions, and stimulates healthy action of the secretions of the body; without creating any of those unpleasant results attending the use of opium. Old and young may take it at all hours and times when requisite. Thousands of persons testify to its marvellous good effects and wonderful cures, while Medical men extol its virtues most extensively using it in great quantities in the following diseases:—

Diseases in which it is found eminently useful—Cholera, Dysentery, Diarrhœa, Colics, Coughs, Asthma, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Cough, Cramp, Hysteria, &c.

EXTRACTS FROM MEDICAL OPINIONS.

The Right Hon. Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians and J. T. Davenport that he had received information to the effect that the only remedy of any service in Cholera was Chlorodyne.—See Lancet Dec. 31, 1864.

From A. Montgomery, Esq., late Inspector of Hospitals, Bombay:—"Chlorodyne is a most valuable remedy in Neuralgia, Asthma and Dysentery. To it I fairly owe my restoration to health after 18 month's severe suffering, and when other remedies had failed."

Dr. Lowe, Medical Missionary in India, reports [Dec. 1865] that nearly every case of Cholera in which Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne was administered the patient recovered.

Extract from Medical Times, Jan. 12, 1866.—"Chlorodyne is prescribed by scores of orthodox medical practitioners. Of course it would not thus be singularly popular did it not 'supply a want and fill a place.'"

Extract from the General Board of Health, London, as to its efficacy in Cholera.—"So strongly are we convinced of the immense value of this remedy, that we cannot too forcibly urge the necessity of adopting it in all cases."

Beware of spurious and dangerous compounds sold as CHLORODYNE, from which frequent fatal results have followed.

See leading article, Pharmaceutical Journal, Aug. 1, 1859, which states that Dr. J. Collis Browne was the Inventor of Chlorodyne; that it is always right to use his preparation when Chlorodyne is ordered.

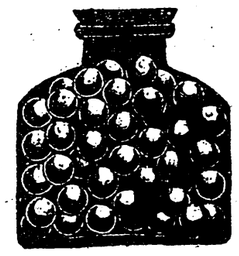
HEALTH RESTORED
BY THE USE OF
BTOL'S SUGAR COATED VEGETABLE PILLS.

These Pills have justly acquired a widely extended reputation for their wonderful cures of severe cases of sickness—cases in which all other Medicines had failed, and which had been given up by Physicians as beyond help—such as confirmed and long-standing Liver Complaints, obstinate cases of Piles, Dropsy, &c. But while admitting their wonderful curative powers in difficult cases, we wish to call attention to their great value in the every-day diseases of life, such as Costiveness, for which they are a perfect specific; Headache relieved and cured by one dose; Indigestion always removed by them, and the stomach so toned and strengthened as to prevent a return. Bad Breath cannot exist when the stomach is cleansed by

BRISTOL'S SUGAR-COATED PILLS.



Purely Vegtable.

For Loss of Appetite they are the only sure remedy, as they never fail in carrying off the depraved bilious secretions that float in the stomach and destroy the healthy, natural craving for food. Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Flatulency, and all Derangements of the Digestive and excretory Organs, are promptly relieved and cured by them. The public should always bear in mind that Bristol's are the only Pills made of

Podophyllin and Leptandrin,

The only vegetable substances yet discovered that are really

Antibilious,

To the presence of which invaluable resinoids the extraordinary success of Bristol's Pills may in a great measure be ascribed. It is necessary, however, that the sick should always remember that in all diseases that have their origin in the blood.

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA,

That best of blood purifiers, should be used with the Pills, the two Medicines being prepared expressly to act in harmony together. When this is done faithfully, we have no hesitation in saying that great relief, and, in most cases, a cure, can be guaranteed when the patient is not already beyond human help.

For general directions and table of doses, see the wrapper around each phial of Pills; but as different constitutions require different doses to produce the same effect, it is better that each person ascertain, by trial, the dose that suits their system, and take that dose, instead of following any general rule.
